• CALL FOR PAPERS

CKS PH.D. & SENIOR FELLOWSHIP COMPETITION FOR CAMBODIAN AND U.S. SCHOLARS

Deadline: November 15th, 2017

This program is open to Cambodian and U.S. doctoral candidates and scholars who have already earned their Ph.D. in the social sciences and humanities. Scholars can pursue research in other countries in mainland Southeast Asia (Thailand, Laos, Vietnam, Burma, Southern China) provided that part of their research is undertaken in Cambodia.

Ph.D. Dissertation Research Fellowships

Senior Fellowships are open to scholars in all disciplines in the social sciences and the humanities to pursue further research in Cambodia and Southeast Asia.

Senior Research Fellowships

Senior Fellowships are open to scholars in all disciplines in the social sciences and the humanities to pursue further research in Cambodia and Southeast Asia.

Short-term awards are available for up to four months.

Long-term awards are available for six to nine months.

Fellowships for four months or less have some travel restrictions.

Criteria for Evaluation

The Selection Committee will assess each application on the basis of the project description, the candidate's academic and/ or professional record and the quality of references. Members of the Selection Committee represent different academic disciplines, so the applicant must explain the nature and significance of the project in terms understandable to a non-specialist audience. Candidates MUST be Cambodian or U.S. citizens. Funding for the Center for Khmer Studies Fellowship Program is provided by a grant from the Council of American Overseas Research Centers.

For Cambodian and U.S. Scholars, please follow this link:

CALL FOR PAPERS: RECENTERING CRITICAL TOURISM STUDIES, 4-6/03/2018, YOGYAKARTA, INDONESIA

Final deadline for abstract and panel submission : 15/10/2017

The Asia Pacific is one of the fastest growing regions in the world for both international and domestic tourism. The growth of this region has radically altered the global tourism landscape and contributed to new modes of tourism practice, while engendering a decentering of Anglo-Western centrism in tourism theory. In this inaugural conference of the Critical Tourism Studies Asia Pacific network (CTS-AP), we seek to draw attention to the multiple modalities and recenterings of critical tourism scholarship.

The aim of this conference is to stimulate new conversations that examine issues across tourism theory, policy and practice. By highlighting perspectives in and beyond the region, we address how the “center” of tourism scholarship is mediated by ongoing shifts in the global political economy, tourism geopolitics and environmental governance.

We seek to re-frame the centers and peripheries of critical tourism studies through focused and critical analyses of tourism ideologies, practices, and policies, bringing a particular interest to how they circulate transnationally, regionally and locally through complex and manifold interconnections within the Asia-Pacific region and beyond.

We welcome papers and presentations from scholars and practitioners that employ a critical approach to tourism studies. We anticipate the participation of practitioners, travel writers and tourism-focused scholars from across a range of disciplines such as anthropology, geography, sociology, political science, and cultural, environmental, women’s, area, and tourism studies.

SUPPORTIVE PUBLICATIONS

Our academic journal partners may invite selected papers to be submitted for possible publication subject to the usual peer review process.

CALL FOR PAPERS : SACRED SITES/SACRED STORIES: GLOBAL PERSPECTIVES, 5-7 APRIL 2018, ANU COLLEGE OF ASIA & THE PACIFIC, THE AUSTRALIAN NATIONAL UNIVERSITY, CANBERRA, ACT, AUSTRALIA

ABSTRACT DEADLINE: 15 OCTOBER 2017

The study of sacred sites is a prominent feature in a number of disciplines. Sacred sites and stories and pilgrimage are the theme of the conference. Topics of enquiry range from the role of sacred sites in religious traditions, through to how sacred sites form part of the development of modern tourist industries, the role of sacred sites in international relations and the ways in which sacred sites can be the focus for disputes. At a time when many sacred sites and their stories face challenges due to economic development, environmental change and the impact of mass pilgrimage and tourism the conference offers an opportunity for wide-ranging discussions of the past, present and future of sacred sites and stories and their significance in the world today.

The conference will have the following panels

- Pilgrimage and Tourism
- Historical Perspectives
- Visual Arts and Architecture
- Indigenous Tradition
- Competition and Contestation

We welcome proposals for paper presentations that address the theme of one of these panels. Individual papers that are relevant to the main theme but are not aligned with any of the proposed panel streams will also be considered for presentation.

Panel Proposals :

While proposals for individual papers are welcome, applicants are also encouraged to collaborate with peers to propose panels of 3-4 papers that converge on a particular theme.

In view of the major role that Australia and the Asia Pacific region plays in national and international discussions about sacred sites and sacred stories we particularly welcome panels on Asian, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander and Pacific perspectives on sacred sites. We also welcome papers covering a range of time frames, from pre-history to the contemporary era, and from all traditions and locations.

REQUEST FOR WORKSHOP PROPOSALS : CONFERENCE ON INTERASIAN CONNECTIONS VI: HANOI, 4-7/12/2018, HOSTED BY THE VIETNAM ACADEMY OF SOCIAL SCIENCES

Organized by: Social Science Research Council InterAsia Program, Duke University Global Asia Initiative, Göttingen University Global and Transregional Studies Platform, the Hong Kong Institute for the Humanities and Social Sciences at the University of Hong Kong, Asia Research Institute at the National University of Singapore, Seoul National University Asia Center, Vietnam Academy of Social Sciences, and Yale University – collectively the Organizers.

Request for Workshop Proposals

The deadline for application submissions is 31 October 2017.

InterAsian Connections VI: Hanoi is the sixth in a series of conferences showcasing innovative research from across the social sciences and related disciplines that explores themes that transform conventional understandings of Asia. Crossing traditional area studies boundaries and creating international and interdisciplinary networks of scholars working to theorize the intersection of the “global” and the “regional” in a variety of contexts, Asia is reconceptualized as a dynamic and interconnected historical, geographical, and cultural formation stretching from West Asia through Eurasia, South Asia and Southeast Asia, to East Asia.

The 2018 Hanoi conference—comprised of both closed, director-led thematic workshops and plenary sessions open across workshops and to the general public—will be structured to enable intensive “working group” interactions on specific research themes as well as broader interactions on topics of mutual interest and concern. Each workshop will have two directors with different institutional affiliations, preferably representing different disciplines.

Joint proposals are invited from faculty members at accredited universities and colleges in any world region who are interested in co-organizing and co-directing a thematic workshop that addresses one of the following broadly conceived workshop themes (click here to see full description of workshop themes):

- Sites of InterAsian Interaction
- Territorial Sovereignities and Historical Identities
- Transregional Religious Networks
- Environmental Humanities in Asia
- Rethinking Conceptual Frameworks for the Rise of Asian Cities
- Infrastructures and Networks

CALL FOR PAPERS : ASIAN STUDIES ASSOCIATION OF AUSTRALIA CONFERENCE 2018, 3-5 JULY 2018, SYDNEY SOUTHEAST ASIA CENTRE

We are proud to host the 22nd biennial conference of the Asian Studies Association of Australia (ASAA).

Co-organised by the Sydney Southeast Asia Centre, the China Studies Centre and the School of Languages and Culture, this conference will bring together academics from across the disciplines with a shared interest in Asia. The conference is open to scholars, students and community members wishing to share their research and hear about the latest developments in Asian Studies. The theme for 2018, Area studies and beyond, builds upon the traditional interdisciplinary fields of research within Asian Studies and seeks to move beyond them, to celebrate the full breadth and depth of interest in Asia across all fields of research.

Call for papers

Proposal submissions are now open for panels, individual papers and workshops. The deadline for submissions is 1 November 2017.

We strongly encourage multi-country or multi-disciplinary representation, as well as gender balance and the inclusion of a combination of junior and senior scholars, in all proposals.

ARI JOB OPPORTUNITIES 2017/18

POSITIONS ARE INTENDED FOR OUTSTANDING, ACTIVE RESEARCHERS TO WORK ON AN IMPORTANT PIECE OF ASIA-RELATED RESEARCH IN THE SOCIAL SCIENCES OR HUMANITIES.

Applicants should only apply for ONE of the four types of job opportunity (i.e. Senior Research Fellow, Research Fellow, Postdoctoral Fellow, or Visiting Senior Research Fellow). Apart from the quality of the programme of intended research and the applicant’s track record, positions will be awarded on the basis of the relationship of the topic of their research to the agendas of ARI’s research clusters as listed in Research clusters and their focus \(click here\)

Applicants need to indicate the particular Research Cluster to which they are applying. In cases where there may be overlapping research interests, you may list up to a maximum of two clusters.

During their term at ARI, recipients are expected to work closely with their Research Cluster leader, engage fully with the activities of the Institute, and acknowledge ARI in their publications. Additional requirements, where relevant, are set out in the separate details for each type of position.
